Professional Coach Training

101: An Overview of the Core Coaching Competencies (16 hours) –

provides an overview of the core coaching competencies. A strong understanding of these competencies is one of the most important first steps that you can take as a new coach.

102: The Coaching Leader (6 hours) – This class is designed to help leaders understand that they can effectively utilize coaching skills to impact their professional and personal settings in a powerful and positive way. Leaders will walk away from this class with practical steps of how to implement coaching in their daily lives and improve their leadership effectiveness.

103: Practice Lab – Level One (8 hours) – This class is an opportunity for students to receive feedback on their coaching, as well as offer feedback to other students when they coach. In addition to student feedback, faculty will also be offering constructive feedback throughout this lab.

104: Coaching Intact Teams and Groups (8 hours) – This course is a solid introduction to coaching intact teams and groups. The Core Coaching Competencies are thoroughly reviewed and discussed in the class, as well as best practices when coaching teams and groups.

105: Group Coaching Practice Lab (8 hours) – Group Coaching Practice Lab is an opportunity for students to experience group coaching firsthand, as well as practice being the group coach. This course is highly experiential. All participants are required to be the group coach, as well as a group participant when others are coaching.

106: How to Get Started as a Coach (4 hours) – This class will help students identify those items needed when starting to coach (ie., Welcome Kit, Coaching Agreement, etc.), provide a thorough review of the Professional Standards and ICF Code of Ethics, and discuss next steps toward developing a coaching practice.

107: Common Coaching Scenarios in Organizations (4 hours) – provides a basic understanding of nine common coaching situations experienced as a coach in a leadership setting. While coaching of each person or group is unique, there are common themes and approaches that provide the coach with a framework from which to craft a coach approach to leadership. The common coaching scenarios we will address include: 1) Coaching the New Supervisor, 2) Coaching Transitions, 3) Coaching the CEO or Executive, 4) Coaching Promotions, 5) Coaching Teams, 6) Coaching as a Leadership Tool.

108: Conflict and Coaching (6 hours) – Coaches frequently find themselves coaching individuals and groups around the topic of conflict. Many coaches feel inadequately prepared for conflict-coaching. This course will provide participants with an opportunity to increase their understanding of conflict, as well as identify their own personal style of addressing conflict. Practical and proven techniques to further develop conflict competency as a coach will also be explored. While this course will offer participants valuable resource material, the real value of this course comes from the candid discussion and sharing of the group around real conflict situations. Those participating in this course are asked to identify, in advance of class, conflict situations in their personal and professional life. Actual coaching on conflict will occur in this course. Because of the deeply personal nature of this topic, strict confidentiality is required.

109: Developing a Strong Personal Foundation (8 hours) – The objective of this course is two-fold: 1) To assist the coach in the development of his/her own solid personal foundation, and 2) To provide the coach with practical discussion, techniques and insights for developing a solid personal foundation in those whom they coach.

110: Group Mentor-Coaching (8 hours) – This course is the first of a two-part class designed to meet the Mentor-Coaching requirement. The second class is: 111: Individual Mentor-Coaching. Group Mentor-Coaching provides new coaches with in-the-moment feedback on their coaching. The feedback is based on the 11 Core Coaching Competencies. Each participant is required to coach, be coached and be an active observer offering feedback when others coach.

111: Individual Mentor-Coaching (3 hours) – This course is the second of a two-part class designed to meet the Mentor-Coaching requirement. The first class is: 110: Group Mentor-Coaching. Individual Mentor-Coaching provides new coaches with one-on-one learning with a seasoned, approved mentor-coach, as well as in-the-moment feedback on their coaching. The feedback is based on the 11 Core Coaching Competencies. Each participant is required to provide their mentor-coach with either LIVE or recorded sessions of their coaching.
